The best that can be said of the security

TUESDAY, Jan. 30.

market to-day is that during the greater part of the Stock Exchange session sellers were few; the worst is that buyers were equally scarce. A sort of speculative deadlock fell upon the trading, which reduced transactions to a small volume, comparatively, and represented the unwillingness of operators to make commitments either for the rise or the fall. The tendency of the market was, however, to sag, and in the last half hour prices ran off briskly just as they did yesterday, so that stocks losed at the lowest, and in many instances at more than fractional declines for the day. There was no particular cause assigned for the movement. Every one seemed to dismiss from consideration the ction of the Government in requesting the substitution by national banks of Government bonds for the State and municipal issues pledged to secure deposits of public ter was any real factor in producing the decline in prices yesterday. The fact that the banks have until Aug. 1 to make the required change and that the requirement will undoubtedly be suspended if an emergency should arise was recognized by the trading element minimizing the market significance of the step. There was some selling of Southern Pacific, upon the theory that the existence of the bubonic plague in the Western part of the country might interfere to some extent with the business of the road; but it is needless to say that this theory is an ultra-speculative one. The other stocks in the market which reflected selling pressure were the Erie, Rock Island, Chesapeake and Ohio and St. Paul shares. All of these stocks have recently advanced considerably, the first two greatly, and some reaction in the quotations for them must be expected. They were all, however, clearly enough the subject of liquidation to-day. The failure of many rumors concerning these stocks that have recently circulated to materialize into fact is naturally disappointing to speculators who purchased them at higher prices, and must be confessed that the present level of the general list of securities does not seem to be attractive to purchasers. London sold about 20,000 shares of stock to-day and was also a neavy seller yesterday. The effect of this selling must, of course, if continues, be witnessed in the foreign exchange market. Sterling exchange here was slightly higher than yesterday and customs payments for the week promise to make a record, over $2,000,000 having already been taken into the Sub-Treasury on this account. Sterling in Paris rose again, however, and there was no talk of gold exports in the immediate future, at all events.

Practically the only news of the day was that the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court in the Third Department, sitting at Albany, had declared the Franchise Tax law unconstitutional. The decision was made by a divided court, and it was, in substance, but an intermediate step in the consideration of the matter, as the case now passes to the Court of Appeals. If speculation for the rise had been rampant, the decision would have sharply advanced the shares of all the corporations affected by the Franchise Tax law, that is to say chiefly the local transportation lines and gas companies, and the fact that the stocks of the companies concerned were not stimulated by the event and declined as much as most other stocks in the fall in prices in the afternoon was adduced by bearish operators as a proof of the utter lack of public interest in the market. Possibly one cause for the lack of enthusiasm of the holders of these shares was that the Appellate Division held that the Legislature had general power to tax public franchises, and that the Franchise Tax law was unconstitutional solely because the Legislature had taken from the sors the duty of State board. There was considerable un-certainty in the Street up to the close of business as to whether the decision of the court had actually invalidated the indicated that the local assessors, rather than the State Board of Tax Commissioner, must go ahead and levy and collect the franchise taxes under it. The exports from this port for the current week show falling off. They are but $10,834,269, against $13.352,672 last week. Since Jan. 1, however, our local exports have been nearly $4,000,000 more than those of the similar period last year.

The decline in cotton wa August 8.61 8.56 8.568.57
September 8.28 8.22 8.228.23
The decline in cotton was due to a fall in Lavernool, some lacrease in the interior receipts and liquidation for local and New Orleans account. The weather is better and numerous telegrams from different parts of the South predict an increased movement. Toward the close one house bought freely and found the market steady. The portrecipts were exceeded by the exports spot markets as a rule were steady; print cloths advanced like at Fall River, and Liverpool despatches reported Manchester active and strong Lack of oustide speculation was really the worst drawback here, though the increase in the interior movement; it continues, is bound to be an important factor in governing the future course of prices. Mr. Price had despatches reporting larger stocks at some of the uncounted towns in Alabama. Arkansas, Georgia, South Carolina and Texas than a year ago. And some of the bulls had advices to the opposite effect. Tuscalooss, Ala.—"At several points where we purchase, we have bought as much cotton from Dec. 23 up to Jan. 10 as we purchased from Oct. 20 up to Dec. 23. Merchants and planters sold their holdings when spots reached a cents and higher. Cotton buyers have been working up and shipping this atten for the past two weeks as compared to last year." Memphis.—Five salers show largest amount of unpicked cotton in the flaters show largest amount of unpicked cotton in the ristory, which, if secured, must carry crop largely above 11,000,000. Gins idle for week now starting up."

McIntyre & Marshall said: "Our foreign advices to day are again yery strongly indicative of above 11,000,000. Gins idle for week now startag up.

Melntyre & Marshall said: "Our foreign advices to day are again very strongly indicative of confidence in 5d. being reached in Liverpool, unless indications shall soon point conclusively to a crop in excess of 11,000,000 bales, and one correspondent cables: We think consumption will exceed last season's $50,000 bales. We have not heretofore thought it wise to dwell too heavily on the prospects of a larger consumption than last year, or at least until a more thorough knowledge of the possible trade conditions up to the first of next September could be gained. It is time, however, in view of the above, to suggest that the use of American cotton for the current cotton year bids fair to exceed last season fully $60,000 bales, unless curtailed by high prices. movement of cotton for the week will probably about equal the corresponding week last year, and the changes in the statistical position. If therefore be unimportant, the world's supply of American cotton lost about 65,000 bales dayear, and, while the loss this week may not be signed, the strength of the position will not be materially reduced. There is no present sign of largely increased movement in the future, and unless the result of the widely-advertised picking base of the situation will continue to the favorable to the mark t.
